Be a part of the climate solution

The Cities Power Partnership (CPP) is an exciting free national project launched by the Climate Council that supports local government to slash emissions and ramp up climate action.

With 70 member councils and growing since its launch in July 2017, the partnership now represents over 8 million people, 250 towns and cities, making it Australia's largest climate program for local government.

The CPP summit will bring together local government climate leaders to be inspired, to network, reflect and learn how to progress their five program action pledges.
